

Rationale — how this breaks from cream/burgundy while staying MOSC:

- Planes, not parchment: vibrant electric indigo (#3B2ED0) carries the immersive moments (hero, Catholicos, world church); shiny bright white (FFFFFF) carries reading — bright, warm and easy on the eyes.
- Coral as the accent: the single accent is vibrant coral, with sunshine yellow carrying emphasis on the indigo plane — used for rules, kickers, focus rings and the primary action — never as a background field.
- Modernist discipline kept: zero radius, strong 2px rules, flush-left everything (including button labels), visible structure — but with editorial magazine spacing, so it never reads as broadsheet density.
- Type is the identity: Cormorant Garamond (display serif) for the wordmark and section titles, Archivo for UI/body, Anek Malayalam for bilingual blocks. No Inter/Roboto/system voice.
- One job per viewport: the hero is brand + one headline + one line + one CTA group over a full-bleed image — no badges, chips or stat strips.
- Photography is the anchor: every image is a drop slot (drag your real Aramana / worship / portrait photos in — they persist and fill all variations at once). Photos run in their original color by default; grayscale / indigo duotone remain available as a Tweak.

ABOUT US

Rooted in the Apostle Thomas. Alive in every generation.

The Malankara Orthodox Syrian Church traces its origin to the mission of St. Thomas the Apostle, who arrived on the Malabar coast in AD 52.

Autocephalous and led by the Catholicos of the East, the Church holds the faith of the ancient Oriental Orthodox communion.

From the Catholicate Aramana at Devalokam, Kottayam, the Church shepherds dioceses, parishes, seminaries and spiritual organisations across India and around the world.

THE CATHOLICATE

His Holiness Baselios Marthoma Mathews III

CATHOLICOS OF THE EAST & MALANKARA
METROPOLITAN

Successor to the Apostolic Throne of St. Thomas, His Holiness shepherds the Malankara Church in prayer, teaching and service.

Enthroned as Catholicos of the East in October 2021 at the Catholicate Aramana chapel, Devalokam, His Holiness previously served the Church as a metropolitan across decades of pastoral ministry — guiding dioceses, seminaries and spiritual organisations.

His ministry emphasises the liturgical life of the parish, the formation of clergy, care for the poor, and the unity of the Orthodox faithful across continents.

“The Church lives when her people pray, and serves when her people love.”
